Better High Streets ■ Better Leisure ■ Better Schools

Creating a better place to live

Dear Resident,

What a year 2012 has been in Waltham Forest. As well as the many events taking place and the Games happening right on our doorstep, we have also been working hard to create a better place for our residents to live.

We have focused on delivering better streets, better shopping and better leisure facilities and some of the highlights have included the transformation of High Road Leyton, the William Morris Gallery and Lloyd Park re-openings following multi-million pound refurbishments and shop fronts in Walthamstow and Leyton benefitting from a makeover. I hope you have noticed and enjoyed the changes taking place in the borough.

We are an ambitious borough and as we move in to a post Games era, we will continue the work to regenerate

Waltham Forest. Going forward we will progress with our shop front project as part of our work to create Better High Streets. We will also focus on Better Schools to provide our children with a quality place to learn and Better Leisure facilities through an upgrade to our leisure centres.

Work will continue on our largest park project Leyton Jubilee Park (formerly Marsh Lane Playing Fields). Local teams will be fully equipped as the new changing pavilion is expected to be open by the end of October and the new football pitches will be ready for September 2013.

There will be opportunities for you to get involved in what's happening so please do have your say and help us make our borough a better place to live in.

Some of the changes you'll start to see immediately, while others will take time. We will continue to keep you informed of the changes through Waltham Forest News and online at www.walthamforest.gov.uk/betterplace

Yours faithfully

Chris Robbins
Leader of Waltham Forest Council

Better High Streets

Better High Streets ■ Better Leisure ■ Better Schools

Creating a better place to live

The Games have been and gone but we are continuing our work to regenerate the borough. You have told us that improving the borough's streets and shopping facilities continues to be a priority and the Council has committed to spend £9million on improving the borough's high streets over the next few years.

Already this year, we have:

- Renewed 60 shop fronts on Walthamstow High Street and High Road Leyton with new frontages and design.
- Attracted new stall holders for Wood Street Indoor Market and Walthamstow Market offering you a new and wider selection of food, crafts, antiques and gifts.
- Installed a new foot and cycle bridge over the A12 to ensure residents could access the Olympic Park and the facilities that will remain after the Games.
- Provided residents and visitors with safer and more attractive streets in Leyton, Leytonstone and Wood Street.

Following on from the success of the shop front and street improvement works in the borough nine more areas have now been identified to receive a similar treatment.

All of the areas will receive shop front and street improvements works as well as other area specific work.

Highlights include:

- Blackhorse Lane – new entrances to Walthamstow Wetlands including new cycle and pedestrian routes, signage, landscaping and cycle parking.
- South Chingford – work with property owners to bring vacant flats above shops back into use.
- Francis Road - will benefit from highways work, road safety measures and additional tree planting.
- Higham Hill - improved pedestrian access to and from Higham Hill Park.
- Lea Bridge Road and Bakers Arms – street improvements to the junction, feature lighting and bike stands.
- Leytonstone – improved area around Leytonstone High Road overground station with artwork and feature lighting.
- South Leyton - improved appearance of shop fronts and the surrounding area, and some further highway works at key locations.
- Walthamstow - highways work and road safety measures along the High Street, South Grove and the surrounding area as well as art interventions to unattractive blank walls.
- Wood Street – improved play areas and artwork integrated into the area, including on some blank walls and shutters.

Standing together

Community backed campaign to stop the English Defence League from returning to Waltham Forest

Far-right group the English Defence League (EDL) is once again threatening to come to Waltham Forest.

A community backed campaign to stop the EDL from marching in Waltham Forest for a second time in as many months has seen more than 1,200 people sign up to show their support in just one week.

Led by Waltham Forest Council, with the backing of local newspaper The Guardian, the campaign 'Waltham Forest United Strong Together' is calling on the Home Secretary to stop the EDL from returning to the borough.

Following correspondence with the Home Secretary to take action to protect Waltham Forest residents from the onslaught of the far-right group, the Leader of the Council Chris Robbins was invited by MP Iain Duncan Smith to sit down and discuss the issues with the Assistant Commissioner Mark Rowley at the minister's offices.

Chris Robbins said: "We had a very constructive meeting. The Police are taking our concerns seriously which is good to hear and we're now in contact with the highest levels within the Met.

“As I have highlighted before

Waltham Forest's politicians, community leaders and representatives from the Faith Communities Forum are supporting the campaign this campaign is not about the right to protest peacefully, this is about the EDL targeting our community by threatening to return to the borough less than 60 days after they last marched here.

"We'll continue to liaise with the government and Police to ensure that they act on residents' concerns."

The EDL marched through Walthamstow on Saturday 1 September, and are now making plans to return to the borough on Saturday 27 October.

A host of politicians and community leaders including MP John Cryer and representatives from the Faith Communities Forum turned out to show their support at the campaigns official launch last week.

Chris added: "Waltham Forest is a fantastic community made up of residents from all sorts of backgrounds and walks of life. It's these differences that make the borough the place it is today - we're part of a thriving city that is united, strong and stands together.”

Residents can sign an online petition or fill in and send back the slip on p5 of this edition of Waltham Forest News to get their voices heard - the EDL are not welcome in Waltham Forest!

In my opinion

Paula David

Local Writer, Highams Park

As a professional writer I feel strongly that other keen writers in Waltham Forest should have more opportunities to develop and improve their craft.

Over the past few years I searched for writing opportunities in the local area and I felt that more needed to be done to encourage people to write. I also felt that these activities should be open to a broader section of the community.

Taking part in various workshops and writing poetry for the Carnival of Monsters Exhibition in Nottingham improved my skills tremendously. I have published poetry in anthologies and had three plays performed as a result of opportunities such as these.

For this reason I founded the Voices Unite project to bring diverse parts of the community together to discuss and respond to the theme 'identity' through creative writing. Over the summer new and experienced writers from across the borough took part in creative writing workshops funded by Waltham Forest Council and led by me. Art and design students at Leyton Six Form College also created visual art on the theme 'identity'.

The workshops took place at Leytonstone Library, the Limes Children's Centre and at the Langthorne Park Festival. It was great to see participants from every age group and ethnicity coming together to create.

Writers from different sections of the community were able to share their experiences, views and opinions. We created an anthology of their work called Identities Unite, which reflects some of those experiences and views. The artwork was displayed and celebrated at Leytonstone Library on Thursday 19 July during an evening of spoken word and music. The anthology was formally launched on Sunday 9 September at the Council's Leyton Day event.

Free copies of the anthology are now available from Vestry House Museum, the William Morris Gallery, Tokarska Gallery, Water Works Nature Reserve and Leyton, Leytonstone, Walthamstow, Wood Street, Lea Bridge and Highams Park Libraries.

Negotiations for funding for a similar project are underway so please get in touch if you are a local budding writer looking for guidance and support. Visit <http://pauladavid.co.uk> for more information.

All writers need the space and opportunity to develop their craft. Creating opportunities for writers within a borough such as Waltham Forest is essential. This diverse community has a plethora of gifted writers that we have a unique opportunity to nurture.

All leisure centres in the borough will be improved

Leisure Centres get health boost

- Multi-million pound investment to refurbish borough's leisure centres
- Work is already underway at some centres

Residents will see their local leisure centres benefit from a major health kick as part of the Council's 'Creating a better place' campaign thanks to the signing of a new leisure management contract.

The deal with 'Better', the Council's leisure centre operator formerly known as GLL, will see all of Waltham Forest's leisure centres refurbished, one completely rebuilt and another thoroughly overhauled.

Major changes will include a brand new Waltham Forest Pool and Track, which promises residents more than ever before, including a climbing wall, two new five-a-side football pitches and fantastic new kids' facilities. The swimming pool, diving zone, gym and athletics track will all be brought up to spec as part of the rebuild.

Cathall Leisure Centre will be extended and revamped, with a new sports hall, larger fitness suite, new studio and ICT suite. Elsewhere, Leyton Leisure Lagoon will be refurbished and improved while Larkwood Leisure Centre, Kelmscott Leisure Centre and Plumtree Studios will be given a thorough makeover.

Work is well underway at Kelmscott Leisure Centre, where customers are already enjoying the refurbished outdoor football, hockey and netball facilities and newly laid flooring inside the sports hall. A sprung floor gymnasium will be installed by the end of October.

Work also began today (Monday 1 October) at Plumtree Studios in Leyton. The transformation will include a new 70 station gym, fully refurbished changing rooms and a new fast track entry system. The centre will be closed until the work is complete in January 2013.

Cllr Ahsan Khan, Cabinet Member for Health and Well-being, told Waltham Forest News: "The refurbishment of all of the borough's leisure centres is fantastic news for local people. It seems very fitting that the work is beginning during our Olympic Year and building on our Games-time legacy to inspire a generation.

"Providing better leisure facilities for our residents is a key part of the Council's regeneration plans and will help get more of our residents participating in sporting activities and, ultimately, living healthier lives."

Jobs for local people

- Council and Tesco create 75 jobs for long-term unemployed
- Borough residents benefit from training, qualifications and jobs

Thanks to an agreement between Waltham Forest Council and Tesco, the supermarket's new store off Larkshall Road in Highams Park will employ a number of local people when it opens on Thursday 4 October - including 75 long-term unemployed residents.

The Council has worked in partnership with Tesco, Jobcentre Plus and Waltham Forest College to not only secure jobs for local people, but training too.

At a graduation ceremony on Friday 14 September the new employees celebrated passing their City & Guilds Level 2 Certificate in Customer Service and a Royal Society of Public Health Level 2 Award in Food Safety in Catering.

This was the culmination of a process that began with open days attended by over 600 residents. These allowed prospective candidates to understand the type of roles available before signing up for interview skills workshops run by Jobcentre Plus.

In all, 450 local people signed up for the workshops that provided sessions on interview skills and techniques, literacy and numeracy tests, and help with completing the Tesco application form.

This then progressed to one-to-one interviews, after which successful candidates were invited to work taster sessions at one of three local Tesco stores before completing their pre-employment training at Waltham Forest College, which comprised of a five-week course.

Cllr Mark Rusling, Cabinet Member for Economic Development and Corporate Resources, said, "By working in partnership with Tesco, a great many of the new jobs have gone to local people, not least the 75 long-term unemployed residents that took part in this scheme."

"We're working hard as a Council with a new team set up specifically to address employment in the borough to ensure we do all we can to ensure local people benefit from opportunities that open up in and around Waltham Forest."

Black History Month

- Waltham Forest celebrates Black History Month with a host of special events
- Why not see what events are on offer for you and your family?

You can download a full programme of events from the Council website

October sees communities around the world celebrate Black History Month and residents of Waltham Forest can take the opportunity to explore and celebrate the borough's rich cultural heritage as the Council marks the month with a programme of events.

Reflecting the fact that 2012 is the 50th Anniversary of Independence of both Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago, the theme for Black History Month 2012 is 'The Legacy of Independence.'

Some of the highlights of the celebrations include a 'Tracing your African and Caribbean family tree' event at Hale End Library on Wednesday 17 October and 'From the Lens to a Lyric' at Walthamstow Library on Tuesday 16 October. This event is an evening of pomp and poetry celebrating 100 years of Caribbean colonial history and the poetry it has inspired.

Vestry House Museum and all Waltham Forest Libraries will be hosting activities and events. From film workshops to art exhibitions, author events to art and crafts, there are lots of ways to get involved.

The Council is also asking residents young and old to submit their own original artwork, photos and poetry on the theme 'Recognising the Past, Shaping the Future: What Black History Month Means to Me'.

The competition is open from Monday 1 to Wednesday 31 October. Entries can be submitted by email to librarypromotions@walthamforest.gov.uk or at any Waltham Forest Library.

In brief

Council bookie talks

Betting shop Chief Executives have been invited to talks with Waltham Forest Council as the local authority looks to build on their action to address the proliferation of bookmakers in the borough. Since 2005 the number of betting shops in town centres in Waltham Forest has risen by 39 per cent. The Council has recently agreed a £9 million regeneration plan for the borough's high streets, and ensuring the right mix of outlets is key to the success of that investment programme. In her letter inviting bookmakers to talk to the Council, Councillor Marie Pye, Cabinet Member for Housing and Town Centre Management, says: 'I believe that betting shops do have a place on our high streets, but the right balance must be struck.'

Margaret Centre marks 25th year

The Margaret Centre at Whipps Cross University Hospital, which has been providing specialist palliative care for 25 years, marked its silver jubilee with a special celebration on Wednesday 26 September. Since opening in 1987 the Margaret Centre has been providing palliative care for local people affected by life-limiting illness, such as cancer and motor neurone disease, helping them to remain independent for as long as possible. The Centre also supports patients' families and carers, both in the community and within the hospital. The event featured performances from local school and community groups, a memory tree and a special anniversary cake. There were also displays of memorabilia and service information, and a commemorative booklet to mark the occasion.

'Everyday Encounters'

An exhibition by the Society of Designer Craftsmen will open at the refurbished William Morris Gallery on Saturday 13 October. Everyday Encounters explores William Morris' idea that the objects we use in our daily lives have the potential to make life more fulfilling. Twenty eight artists will display their work, which includes textiles, ceramics, metal, jewellery and book arts. Many of the items on display will be available to buy. The show will run until February 2013 and is the second temporary exhibition to be housed in the Gallery's new extension. A programme of adult and family events will accompany the exhibition. The Gallery is open Wednesday to Sunday, 10am-5pm. Pre-booked schools and groups are also welcome on Tuesdays. Entry is free.

Priorities

Over the past two years the Council's priorities have seen extra money spent on street cleansing, regeneration including a new pedestrian and cycle bridge at Ruckholt Road, improved high streets and paying for extra police officers

Your priorities, our priorities

- Council set to announce new priorities based on residents' views
- A look back at how we've met our objectives to date

We're well aware that the recession has made things difficult for many residents, and because of financial challenges the Council has had to make considerable savings of its own.

In 2011/12 alone, for example, we made some £29 million worth of savings. While this has meant difficult decisions and changes to services we have nevertheless tried to make every penny count while investing in the services that matter most to you and your family.

The Council's four new priorities will be launched in the next edition of Waltham Forest News.

So let us take this opportunity to look back at what we set out to do and what we've achieved as a borough in the past few years.

Priority: get cleaner and greener

You told us that clean streets were important to you, so we invested £500,000 in a new environmental crime street team who work to blitz problem areas and combat problems like fly-tipping and graffiti. We also extended our bulky waste collection service to offer you unlimited free collections and began waging a war on the unsightly front gardens that drive us all potty when we pass them.

On top of this we invested £200,000 in improving our recycling service, which means you can now recycle more than ever before.

Priority: improve the safety of our community

You told us that feeling safe in your own neighbourhood was one of your key concerns, so we continue to work with our hardworking police colleagues in order to reduce crime and anti-social behaviour.

While policing is, by and large, the Met's responsibility we decided to spend £900,000 on funding 27 additional police officers while ensuring Council staff have the resources they need to clamp down on anti-social behaviour.

Though not a problem that affects many of us, gang crime is a real issue in certain neighbourhoods. Rather than shy away from the problem, the Council has invested £1 million in an innovative anti-gangs initiative – named 'Enough Is Enough' – that is reaping real rewards and has been praised by newspapers, politicians and senior civil servants alike.

Priority: regenerate our borough

When we've spoken to residents, regeneration has been a common theme. You acknowledged the fact that the borough is improving, but have made it clear that you want better streets, better shops and better leisure opportunities. We've committed to making this happen, and have overseen major investments in places like High Road Leyton, Wood Street and Walthamstow High Street with more set to come.

We've also secured a new multi-million-pound leisure contract which will see the borough's sports centres overhauled – and in one case rebuilt from the ground up – and have recently reopened the stunning William Morris Gallery with a temporary exhibition from one of the country's most feted modern designers, Grayson Perry.

Priority: protecting the most vulnerable

While we're committed to helping every family in every way we can, we also know that we have to go above and beyond for vulnerable residents who are in difficult circumstances. Because of this we are transforming our social care services. An ever-increasing number of our vulnerable residents are now receiving direct payments, to give them the choice to select the help and services they need ensuring they receive the bespoke help and services they want.

We are also investing heavily in our local schools to ensure every child gets the best possible start in life.

Priority: make the most of the Olympic year

The Games may have finished, but we'd wager that every single resident has fond memories of them. As well as bringing Olympic-related funding to the borough and securing legacy benefits, we have also helped residents access jobs, training and volunteering opportunities; brokered sporting bursaries for promising young athletes; ensured hundreds of schoolchildren got tickets via the 'Get Set' initiative and entertained more than 55,000 people with our thrilling 'Big 6' events. We also welcomed the Olympic and Paralympic Torch Relays to the borough with a number of free family events.

And now?

We spoke to hundreds of you as part of this summer's Council priorities conversation. We will be exploring these in the next edition of Waltham Forest News, so be sure to keep your eyes peeled to find out how we're helping create a better borough for you and every other resident of Waltham Forest.

WALTHAM FOREST

Waltham Forest's diverse community is once again being targeted by the far-right English Defence League (EDL) as they propose to march on Saturday 27 October, just weeks after their previous demonstration in the area.

Whilst we agree that everyone has the right to protest, this latest stand by people with no connection to our borough is an abuse of this right.

Our community is one where people from all sorts of backgrounds get on well with each other. We do not want the EDL here.

EDL marches in Telford, Tower Hamlets and Luton were banned and our residents deserve the same protection.

Help us call upon the Home Secretary to take action to protect ordinary Waltham Forest residents by telling the EDL that they cannot march on the streets of Waltham Forest.

In brief

Brown bins back to fortnightly collections

The collection of brown bins on a weekly basis for the summer months has come to an end and residents should now revert back to their fortnightly collections schedule. The introduction of weekly collection saw a 30 per cent rise in the amount of compostable waste that was collected by Waltham Forest Council over the summer months. The move was so successful that the Council has pledged to repeat the doubling of collections next summer and in the meantime is encouraging all residents to continue to put food and garden waste in their brown bins.

- To find out what organic waste you can dispose of visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/rubbish-recycling Free internet access is available at all libraries in the borough.

Local children enjoy some of the new play equipment at Lloyd Park

Lloyd Park repoens

Thousands of local people turned out to celebrate the reopening of the refurbished Lloyd Park on Saturday 15 September. The park – one of the most popular in the borough – has been transformed thanks to a £5 million restoration project. The work forms part of the Council's 'Creating a better place to live' campaign. The celebrations included music, food and children's entertainment. Residents got a chance to take advantage of the Aveling Centre with its new café, community room, toilets and art gallery, the new skate park, the refurbished basketball courts, and the new synthetic bowling green.

- For more information about the new Lloyd Park visit the special section of the Council's website at www.walthamforest.gov.uk/lloyd-park. Free internet access is available at all libraries in the borough.

Post Games CPZ

Now that the Olympic and Paralympic Games have come to an end the Council is consulting residents in the south of the borough to find out whether they would like a Controlled Parking Zone (CPZ) operating in their streets. A temporary CPZ was put in place during the Games in order to prevent large numbers of spectators parking outside the homes of local residents while visiting the Olympic Park. Drawing on that experience the Council is now seeking the views of people living in the same areas to find out if they wish a similar system put in place permanently.

- Letters will be sent to residents in the coming days and more information will be available at www.walthamforest.gov.uk/parking.

Angels in the snow

- It's never too early to get ready for winter
- Residents urged to join the ranks of Snow Angels all over the borough

The Council's Snow Angels campaign is entering its third year with a drive to bolster the numbers of community-minded individuals prepared to help out in the event of snowfall.

Snow Angels are members of the public who volunteer to help clear snow from their neighbourhood paths and pavements, complementing the work that the Council does. Their hard work helps to ensure that vulnerable people can get out and about. Last year the Council was able to sign up 362 volunteers and this year hopes to bolster that number to 500.

The Council provides anyone prepared to volunteer with the necessary equipment, including a 20 kilogram bag of grit, a branded hi-visibility vest, protective gloves and a snow scoop or shovel – all free of charge.

"This year we're looking to recruit as many people as possible so that all areas of the borough will have people out clearing the snow from their pavements should we need them," explained Cllr Clyde Loakes, Cabinet Member for Environment.

"We will provide the equipment to anyone who can help, so if you're fit and able, get in touch and do something for your neighbourhood this winter."

One local resident who did just that, William Randall from Leyton, told Waltham Forest News about his experience earlier this year. "On the morning of Sunday 5 February we used the shovel and gloves to clear the pavement outside our home and those of our immediate neighbours, one of whom is quite elderly.

"I am the Minister of Hainault Road Baptist Church, and so we then went and cleared the pavements outside both the Church and the Sunday School Hall, including the paths and steps to each.

"This was particularly helpful as we had a lunch after the morning service. I am glad to say that everyone got in and out safely with no accidents."

As well as supplying equipment, the Council is also looking to place grit bins in roads near Snow Angels. They will also be holding three pick-up days across the borough to provide snow kit, training and advice. The Council has devised a Good Practice for Snow Angels booklet and is looking to team up Snow Angels who live in the same area so they can work together and coordinate their actions.

William Randall is one of the borough's Snow Angels

Walthamstow is London's Best Village

- Walthamstow Village scoops one more gold than Mo Farah!
- Three London in Bloom gold awards trebles last year's tally

Graham Shearman, Helen Lerner and Teresa Deacon picked up Walthamstow Village's three Gold awards

Walthamstow Village picked up a trio of top prizes at the prestigious London in Bloom Awards on 18 September, being recognised for its horticultural high standards, responsibility to the environment and community participation in being awarded a gold in the 'London's Best Village' category.

Helen Lerner, Chair of Walthamstow Village in Bloom Committee, hadn't sat down long before she was asked to collect the award in the 'London's Best Floral Display' category, for the Village's planters and flowerbeds.

But the evening didn't end there and soon a third gold was being collected – this time on behalf of Mr and Mrs Martin of Church Lane in the 'Front Garden' category.

"Last year we took our first gold ever at the awards and so to treble our achievement this year was amazing," said Helen.

"Thanks need to go out to my fellow committee members Teresa Deacon, Graham Sherman and John Chambers for their staunch support and commitment.

"Together we'd also like to thank our wonderful gardening club members and all our volunteers and supporters, not least the WVRA committee and our sponsors including Fullers Builders and The Village Spar Stores.

"We also owe thanks to PCSO Russell Gillingham, the Hoe Street Ward Councillors, our MP Stella Creasy, Waltham Forest Council including Cllr Robbins and Cllr Loakes, and especially Paul Tickner and his team from Kier including Cecil, our cleansing operative.

"Plus Paul Gasson deserves a special mention for designing the beautiful 2012 portfolio, and the 247 group at Vestry House Museum and the headmaster and pupils of Henry Maynard Junior School for showing round the judges."

In brief

Mayor of Waltham Forest Cllr Richard Sweden directs the 'traffic' on the streets of Leytonstone.

Car Free Day

The streets of Leytonstone had a day off from the relentless grind of traffic as Car Free Day came to the borough on Sunday 16 September. As well as Kirkdale Road and Church Lane being free of traffic all the afternoon's entertainment was free too, including performances from top ska band The Selecter and supporting acts Jon Owen and The Known Unknowns and Rags Rudi. There were also children's entertainers on hand and an international food market, featuring food from around the world, as well as lots of other stalls.

Plumtree Studios

We have ambitious plans for Waltham Forest, and as part of our drive to create a better place to live we are transforming leisure centres across the borough as part of a multi-million investment programme.

Work starts this week on the transformation of Plumtree Studios into a state-of-the-art gym facility to help you get fit and stay healthy.

New facilities will include:

- A 70 station gym
- Cardio and resistance equipment
- Spacious free weights area
- Fully refurbished changing rooms
- Fast-track entry system

Unfortunately whilst work is underway Plumtree Studios will be closed from Monday 1 October and reopen in January 2013.

We are working closely with our leisure provider 'Better' to ensure disruption is kept to a minimum. Where possible we have relocated group exercise classes to other leisure centres in the borough but unfortunately some classes have had to be cancelled.

We apologise for any inconvenience caused, but please bear with us during this time, we promise it will be worth it.

A summer of culture for E17

- Community-led events showcase Walthamstow's creative talent
- Thousands of residents and visitors attended art, music and film events

Over the summer Walthamstow has been a bustling hive of cultural activity.

The annual E17 Art Trail returned for its eighth year, running from Saturday 1 to Sunday 16 September. The theme for this year's trail was 'Bestow' and included more than 350 exhibitions and events at 180 venues. As ever, the trail was a huge success. Over 3,500 artists and makers shared their work at performances, exhibitions, talks and workshops during the festival.

Morag McGuire, an organiser of the E17 Art Trail, told Waltham Forest News: "We extended the festival to two weeks and could not believe the sheer range and ambition of the events from the artists involved. Shops, offices and health centres cleared floor, wall and window space and really let the art occupy their businesses. And with so many artists inviting you into their homes and workplaces to see their latest creations the E17 Art Trail is a real home-grown local success story."

Following on from its successful debut in 2011, The Stow Festival returned to E17 from Thursday 20 to Sunday 23 September.

The four-day music festival saw performances from over 50 bands and performers at a very apt 17 venues around Walthamstow. The festival covered a variety of music styles and due to popular demand also included a number of club nights, with dance, electro and northern soul all making an appearance, as well as a silent disco, cabaret night and a karaoke night.

Emma Betts, Co-Chair of The Stow Festival, said: "It was fantastic to see professional artists performing alongside local groups and young musicians performing for the first time. It gave the festival a special atmosphere. We had a terrific response from the community and we can't wait for the next one!"

The Walthamstow Film Festival took place as part of the E17 Art Trail with 77 people submitting their short films for judging.

The panel included local filmmaker Barry Bliss, the British Film Institute's (BFI) director of youth education Noel Goodwin and film critic David Jenkins.

First prize of the festival was awarded to 'Gas', a drama by E17-based film maker Kieron Clark.

Second prize went to 'High in the Sky', an animation by Kim Noce and Shaun Clark about a boy throwing a tantrum in a supermarket.

Finally, third prize was claimed by Kelmscott School pupil Otis Tree for his film 'Action Movie'.

All 77 films were shown at Vestry House Museum on Saturday 8 and Saturday 15 September and the shortlisted films are available to view on the Walthamstow Film Festival website.

Liza Fletcher, Co-founder of Walthamstow Film Festival said: "We are reeling after the positive support and kind comments from filmmakers and visitors alike and hope to build on the success that this E17 event has created."

Tell us your news

In every edition of Waltham Forest News the 'Community' page focuses on Waltham Forest's residents, groups and neighbourhood activities. Some of the stories we've covered over the years include sporting successes, individuals' fundraising efforts, clubs, hobbies and pastimes. The page focuses on each of the borough's four 'town centres' in turn, so Chingford, Leyton, Leytonstone and Walthamstow are each featured every four editions. Perhaps you volunteer at a local charity and want to tell us about a fundraising activity or maybe you want to find more people to join your group. If you've got an interesting, fun or inspiring story to tell we want to hear from you. Simply email us a brief description of your story, and photos, and we will consider including you in a future edition of Waltham Forest News.

In brief

A young resident adds his piece to the tapestry

Kids create tapestry

Young people who paid a visit to Walthamstow's Vestry House Museum over the school summer holidays helped create a special 'tapestry' of the borough. Artist Shehnoor Ahmed worked with over one hundred visitors to create the multicoloured map of the borough. The tapestry grew over five weeks, as residents used a variety of fabrics, photographs and drawings to add people and places special to them to the map. The tapestry, entitled 'Our Walthamstow 2012', is on display at the Vestry House Museum as part of the Capture Waltham Forest exhibition. The workshops were part of Mapping the Change, a 2012 Olympic project recording the changes the Games brought to local people's lives. It is a partnership project with Hackney Museum supported by the Heritage Lottery Fund.

Javelin thrower Ben Maru in action at the London Youth Games

Local sportsmen eye the prize

- Javelin thrower Ben Maru shortlisted for a London Youth Games award
- Waltham Forest's athletics coach Darren Braithwaite also in the running

A promising young javelin thrower who represented the borough at the annual London Youth Games has been shortlisted for a prestigious award for his dedication to the competition.

Ben Maru, who attends Chingford Foundation School, is shortlisted for the Rick Grice Spirit of the Games Award. The award recognises a team or individual who best captures the positive nature of the London Youth Games.

Ben was nominated by the Council's Sports Development Team after he won gold in the javelin at this year's competition. It was the first time he had competed at the Youth Games and that made his win all the more impressive.

Ben said: "I feel honoured to have been shortlisted for such a prestigious award. It's been an exciting summer with the Olympics happening and me winning at the London Youth Games. It's spurred me on to train hard and be the best that I can be."

Also shortlisted for the Volunteer of the Year award is local athletics coach Darren Braithwaite. Darren is a two times bronze medallist in the 4x100 metres relay at the World Athletics Championships.

Darren now works to encourage vulnerable young people into athletics and coaches and mentors them. He is also Team Waltham Forest's athletics coach for the London Youth Games.

Darren said: "It's a great honour to be nominated for the award and I'm excited and surprised that I've been shortlisted. I'd be delighted if I won. Coaching young people is very rewarding, and our athletes have been inspired by the Olympics. They've been saying 'Coach, we want to be in Rio!' So that's my four year plan now, to get some students competing at the Rio 2016 Olympic Games."

The Balfour Beatty London Youth Games Hall of Fame and Annual Awards Evening will take place at Lord's Cricket Ground on Tuesday

9 October.

The annual event also sees former competitors who have gone on to achieve sporting success inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Recent inductees into the Hall of Fame include double Olympic champion Mo Farah, quadruple Paralympic champion David Weir and Tour de France winner Bradley Wiggins.

The Council also nominated rower Tadhg Reid, aquathlon and cycling volunteer Jackie Antoine, hockey and rowing coach Matt Lovell and Waltham Forest Girls Cricket Team for an award. Unfortunately they were not shortlisted, but nevertheless deserve recognition for their dedication to sport in Waltham Forest.

Rush Croft Sports College - A Winning Specialist School

11-16 Mixed Comprehensive. Headteacher: Mr Mark Morrall

'The school's work on Community Cohesion is exemplary and has a marked impact in creating a welcoming environment where students from a wide range of backgrounds feel safe and get on well together'
'The quality of Care, Guidance and Support is outstanding'

A range of home equipment and aids are available to older people, such as this 'bogus caller' button. The aids and support available to older and vulnerable people are dependent on individuals circumstances. Photo by Tunstall Healthcare (UK) Ltd.

Help at home

- Telecare service offers help for vulnerable people
- Referrals can be made by residents, carers or family

Waltham Forest Council is committed to protecting the borough's most vulnerable residents and providing them with the help and support they need. The vast majority of people want to maintain their independence and stay in their own homes and our job is to help them do that.

This knowledge ties in with a national shift towards personal budgets and direct payments, which mean older residents or those with disabilities buy-in the services or support they want rather than have it prescribed to them in a 'one size fits all' approach.

One team hard at work helping vulnerable adults maintain their independence is the Council's Telecare Team. Part of Adults and Social Services, the team offers residents who may be vulnerable, housebound or have health issues aids and equipment to enable them to call for help in an emergency.

Perhaps the most familiar device on offer is the alarm pendant. This is worn around the neck or wrist and lets you call for help if you have had a fall or are in some sort of difficulty. The pendant is connected to your telephone line, and the system is monitored 24/7.

Other equipment that may be on offer depending on individual circumstances includes gas, temperature, smoke and flood detectors. These can be useful if someone has a tendency to forget to switch their home appliances off.

Similarly, the Telecare Team can, in appropriate circumstances, offer automatic pill dispensers for those that have trouble remembering to take their medication. Mobility aids may also be on offer for those who have trouble getting about their home and 'bogus caller' buttons may also be available in special circumstances.

If this sounds like something you might benefit from, then you just need to contact the Council's Telecare Team and talk through your circumstances. You'll need to provide some details, including the names, addresses and telephone numbers of people who should be called in case of an emergency.

If you are a carer or a family member of someone who could potentially benefit from a Telecare assessment, then you can also get in touch – just drop the Telecare Team a line to discuss the situation.

- Restored Lloyd Park after a £4.48million renovation with new gardens, landscaping, exciting play facilities, and a new Aveling Centre with a café and art gallery.
- Upgraded the tennis courts at Abbots Park including two new mini courts to help budding Andy Murrays develop their skills.
- Got one step closer to having a cinema in the borough after an agreement was signed between developers and Empire Cinemas to bring a nine-screen cinema to Walthamstow.
- Received a Community Green Flag for Hawkwood Nature Reserve in Chingford which recognised the partnership between The Friends of Hawkwood Nature Reserve and the Council.
- Confirmed that the Heritage Lottery Fund will support the £6.5million Walthamstow Wetlands Project to transform 200 hectares of reservoirs into a public urban wetlands and nature reserve.

Leisure centres

We are working closely with our leisure provider 'Better' to transform leisure centres across the borough as part of a multi-million investment programme. So however you enjoy staying active there's something to look forward too.

Even the newest facility, Larkwood Leisure Centre, has been spruced up and visitors to Kelmscott Leisure Centre have already seen improvements to the sports hall and football pitch and will soon benefit from a new gymnasium floor when the work is finished in November.

Work starts this week on Plumtree Studios and once complete you will be able to take advantage of a new state of the art gym facility to help you get fit and stay healthy. For more information on the changes to Plumtree Studios turn to page 7.

The programme will also see Leyton Leisure Lagoon and Cathall Leisure Centre completely refurbished and Waltham Forest Pool and Track rebuilt. Look out for more information as the programme progresses.

Improvements to parks

Waltham Forest has the most green space of any London borough north of the Thames. Our programme of work to enhance our parks continues and you will no doubt see changes to your local park or open space in the future.

Works will range from improving play areas for our children and introducing green gyms to help keep you active, to refurbishing toilets, renewing pathways and painting fences to help improve the appearance of the park and entice you to get the maximum out of it.

Drapers Field will receive a radical overhaul where local talent will be able to compete on a new all-weather pitch, and our youngsters will be able to have a kick about on a grass junior football pitch.

Creating a better place to live

As part of our drive to create a better place to live we are investing in schools to give our children the best chance of a bright future. To accommodate an increase in demand for primary school places and provide decent school buildings we are carrying out work to some primary schools in the borough as part of a multi-million investment programme.

Works will vary at each school and range from major construction work, such as extensions, to small adaptations to existing buildings. Twenty-two schools will have building work, these include:

- Buxton Primary School in Leytonstone has undergone internal improvements to the classroom area and has more toilets.
- To cater for additional pupil places, George Mitchell Primary School in Leyton is modifying the building internally to create an additional classroom.

- Parkside Primary School in Chingford has also benefitted from internal changes to increase classroom space.
- Major construction work is taking place at St Saviours C of E Primary School in Waltham-stow. Pupils will benefit from a new reception class, medical room, kitchen, hall and library.

As part of Waltham Forest's secondary school programme pupils at Leytonstone Secondary School will see the building refurbished and Willowfield Secondary School will be relocated with two new classrooms.

We will keep you informed of the latest news on the schools building programme through Waltham Forest News and online at www.walthamforest.gov.uk/betterplace
